The Adjutant Bird

Did you ever see an adjutant bird? Well, it is a peculiar looking bird that has been given its name on account of its military appearance.

I shall tell you a story of the adjutant bird. He felt so much like a soldier that he began to think that all the birds should become soldiers and go to the bird store and release the birds that were in captivity. Well, he paid a visit to all of his friends and urged them to join in this scheme, but none of them was in favor of it.

"It is of no use to try any such plan as that," they said to him. "We will all be caught or killed. We cannot do any good by making any such attempt

He talked and talked to them, but they would not believe that the idea was a good one. "Well, then, I know what I will do," he cried boldly. "I will go alone and release all the birds that are kept in cages in the bird store and at private

So he put on his uniform and buckled on his sword and started off, feeling that he was a very mighty fellow in-

Now there isn't very much more to my story except this: As soon as the bird store man saw him coming he got out a big net and threw it over the adjutant bird's head. Then he took off the bird's sword and pretty uniform and put him in a cage with his other birds. And not long after that the adjutant bird was sold to a lady, who hung him up in her parlor to show her friends what a fine creature he was.

This Pig Went to Market

You have heard many stories about pigs and probably a story about this pig, for this is the one that went to market a to

He was a funny little fellow, who was fand of fun, and because he liked to have a good time he got into trouble. At the market he got his baskets filled with apples and potatoes and peaches and pears and berries and other good things that his mother had told him to get and then started for home. He had not got very far when he met two other little pigs. One of them was fying a kite and the other was watch-

'Oh, what great sport!" exclaimed our little pig. "How I should like to fly that kite!" Then the other pigs said he could do so, and he set his baskets down and took held of the cord upon which the kite, away up in the air, was pulling as hard as ever it could pull.

"This is great fun," said he.
"Hold tight!" cried the other pigs. "I will," said our pig.

After awhile he became tired, and he called the other pigs to come and take their kite, but they did not come. What do you suppose had happened? Those two naughty little pigs had run away with his baskets.

When he got home there were tears in his eyes and his mother had a little switch waiting for him. You may be sure that the next time she sent him on an errand he did not stop on the way to fly kites or anything else. There is a time for play and a time for work. -Pittsburg Dispatch.

lain's Cough Remedy.

ASHBURNHAM, Out., April 18, 1803.—Ithink it is only right that I should tell you what a wonderful effect. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has produced. The day before Easter I was so distressed with a cold and cough that I did not think to be able to take any duties the next day, as my voice was almost choked by the cough. The same day I received an order from you for a bottle of your Cough Remedy. I at once procured a sample bottle, and took about three doses of the medicine. To my great relief the cough and cold had completely disappeared and I was able to preach three times on Easter Day. I know that this rapid and effective cure was due to your Cough Remedy. I make this testimonial without soliciation, being thankful to have found such a God sent remedy.

Respectively yours,
